

Tis the Season

Traditional Glass Ornaments

A newly engaged couple was in the midst of planning their wedding, and decided on a December date. To make their wedding more memorable for guests, they wanted personalized favors that would also tie into the holiday season. The couple chose a traditional glass ornament printed with their names and wedding date. On the day of the wedding, each guest was given an ornament before leaving the ceremony. It was a perfect way to remember the wedding and the joy of the holiday season for years to come.

The city of Shaker River designates the first weekend in December as "support our local small businesses". The city council has adopted a campaign to actively encourage the citizens to do their holiday shopping at local businesses. They decided to use a USA made ornament as a gift to entice shoppers. They liked the fact that the ornament was made in the USA, that it could be printed with a full color logo and comes individually gift boxed. Every year they choose a different landmark to highlight and add the year. During the weekend, they set-up a stand in the middle of the town square and pass out the ornaments to anyone with a receipt from a local business. Year after year people come back to collect the annual memento.

Hand Blown Glass Ornaments

A high school class having its 20 year reunion was in search of gifts to give out at the party for all the people who attended. They came up with the idea of having everyone in the class's senior year photo printed on a Hand Blown Glass Ornament. They placed each ornament at a specific seat at a table to organize a seating arrangement. The former students had to try and find their picture, and also got to see who they were going to be seated next to. Once the party was over everyone was free to bring these home and enjoy year after year.
